

Weber-Isis Pendulum

Sender and Receiver

As every geometric body through its specific design possesses a natural vibration energy (e.g., pyramids), the Weber Isis Pendulum radiates its special vibration according to the same principle. This energy can be used in many ways.

The Weber Isis Pendulum can be a sender and receiver of any data by mental command. The form of the statements is established individually with the pendulum before starting. A decisive advantage in contrast to other pendulum forms is that the Weber Isis Pendulum cleans itself by continual emission of its own white radiation. Vibrations therefore do not cling to the pendulum. The Weber Isis Pendulum is filled with white quartz sand and natural cotton and works like a small Orgone Emitter.

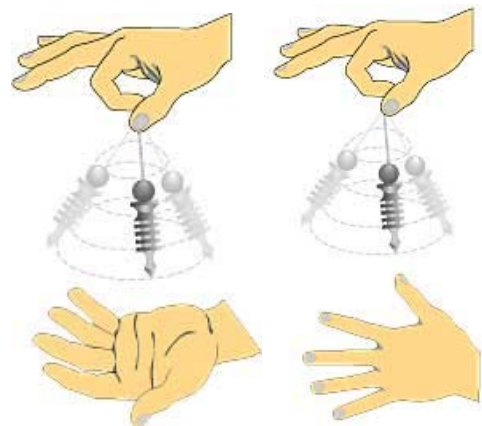

No Loss of Individual Energy

The Weber Isis Pendulum is a reliable measuring instrument. Pendulum operation is not tiresome even over a long time, since the user loses less individual energy than in traditional pendulums. The form of the pendulum, whose rays are strengthened by a "battery" made of four ribs, ensures a very high sensitivity.
